

The satanic British-owned company in Australia "Christian Connection Australia" banned a Christian woman from their "Christian" website business because the real Christian woman had discussed her support for Christian marriages, and argued against homosexual marriages. The Christian woman's paid profile on "Christian Connection Australia" had been removed from their site due to her Biblical conviction and declaration that homosexual conduct is sinful. Through an internet search engine, the Christian woman later discovered that her experience of being banned by "Christian Connection Australia" because of her Biblical belief was not a unique experience. Satan governs "Christian Connection" to enforce a pro-homosexuality agenda.

Anti-Biblical "Christian Connection Australia" is owned by the devilish British company "Christian Connection UK". The British company discriminates against Bible-believing Christians, and ban the real Christians who profess Biblically correct views that contradict the politically correct views of the British company. The devilish British company Widernet Communications Ltd. (<http://www.widernet.co.uk>) exports its satanic operations into Australia. The devilish British "Christianity" has established an internet niche to imperialise its anti-Biblical views onto Australia and the world.

It is absolutely clear that satan governs the relationship market for single Christians also in Australia through the anti-Christian British owner Widernet Communications Ltd (<http://widernet.co.uk>).

The Christian woman who had her profile and discussions removed by Christian Connection due to her Biblical faith in sexual ethics, discovered that she was not alone in experiencing such a ban by Widernet Communications Ltd. Through an internet search engine the Christian woman contacted Torsten. Torsten asked to publicise her experience. The banned Christian woman agreed to publicly revealing her ban due to her Christian faith.

The emails from the banned Christian woman is read chronologically from the top downwards, beneath:

Hi Torzen,

I stumbled across your web page about Christian Connection (and I even remember reading your profile on there once). I am amazed because the same experience happened to me. Recently (and after many years might I add, of being a member of CC), I placed a post on the discussion boards with a heading which was 'Protect Marriage in the ACT' on the boards and included a notice about an upcoming prayer rally conducted by [name] against a NSW parliamentary bill which supported gay 'marriage'. My entire thread simply vanished overnight without any explanation and when I put on my profile page that CC supported a gay agenda, they immediately removed my profile despite the fact that I had paid a subscription. When I said this was unfair, they accused me of abusing people on the boards. I wrote back that they knew this was a complete lie.

I congratulate you fully on what you've done. I told CC that I was going to defame the site by warning others to stay away from it but I didn't do anything. I felt so alone and mistreated after they did that to me. Their approach was evil. I still wish that my friends who regularly used the discussion boards knew what we know but I have stayed clear of the site out of disgust. It's sad that the world is losing it's family values and that morality is rapidly declining. The issue of same sex 'marriage' makes me angry as I know it's not right to God.

Thanks again,

I forgot to add to my previous email that I responded to the abruptness I received from Christian Connection by stating that it was no wonder that no one was finding lasting love on their dating site since they were such hypocritical Christians. I was very, very angry, disappointed and shocked at their rudeness towards me and their immaturity and hypocrisy as 'Christians'.

I've been wondering why CC have their attitude about homosexuality. I got an email from the owner of the CC site many years ago after I'd responded to a thread started by a gay CC member (the only gay member I've ever encountered on there) in which the owner wrote that there was a story of a homosexual couple in the bible and that maybe being gay was not sinful. I was a bit stunned by that coming from the boss and should have left the site then. So it's more than just a financial reason that they don't exclude gays or I should write, pander to gays. They really are supporting the homosexual cause it seems.

Hi [name],

After noticing the recent edit to your profile introduction defaming the site and given your history of posting offensive or incendiary remarks we have taken the decision to remove your profile from Christian Connection Australia.

We have, purely as a gesture of goodwill, refunded your remaining subscription to the sum of AUS$5.00. This will show in your account in 3-5 working days.

Regards,
CC Australia

Since you have, without notifying me and without any reason apart from I assume supporting a gay agenda) deleted my post on the boards about protecting marriage in the A.C.T. and are preventing me from beginning any new discussion on the boards or replying to any posts on the boards which is the only reason I have subscribed, I wish to have my subscription refunded immediately in full.

Sorry Torsten,

I forgot and only just remembered again about finding this. This appears to be all I have from them. It makes me livid to read how they turned the situation on me and accused me of being abusive when I hadn't and took absolutely no blame for their actions. Then wrote they would refund $5. I will go into my bank account and see if they actually gave me this. They ignored what they did completely and had the nerve to accuse me after years of discussing Christian topics on the discussion boards that I was at fault. Obviously they are not only supporting an unbiblical agenda but they are dishonest to label me as something I'm not.

Whatever you want to include online of my correspondence, please just send me a copy first.

With thanks,
